

Catchpole

Beaumont Tiara

Catchpole and Williams

Imelda Marcos tiara jewels jewelery

<https://royal-magazin.de/england/nobles/beaumont-tiara-jewels.htm>

Diamond Tiara and Jewels of Mona J.T.F. Howard Baroness Beaumont

Lady Beaumont is posing in the full regalia of a peeress in her own right wearing the robes normally worn only at Coronations, which belonged to her great-grandmother.

Mona was the elder of two daughters of Miles Stapleton, 10th Baron Beaumont and his wife, Mary. When her father accidentally shot and killed himself in 1895, his title became abeyant between Mona and her younger sister. Almost a year later, Queen Victoria terminated the abeyance in the two-year-old's favour and Mona became the 11th Baroness Beaumont.

B eaurmont

David Llewellyn and his bride
Vanessa Hubbard, 15 March 1980

On 5 September 1914, she married the 3rd Baron Howard of Glossop (thus also becoming Baroness Howard of Glossop). She and her husband were one of the few couples to both hold titles in their own right.

On her death in 1971 at the age of 77, her title passed to her eldest son, Miles, who inherited the dukedom of Norfolk from his father's cousin in 1975 and who added his mother's maiden name to his own.

The picture above was taken in 1947, recorded in the castle of the family. She wears the jewellery of the Beaumont family. The tiara, made by Catchpole & Williams, London, was in the Victorian style and probably wearable in different versions and without the pearls.

In 1980 Vanessa Hubbard married David Llewellyn and the tiara was last seen at this wedding (picture at right).

At some point, the tiara was sold and purchased by Imelda Marcos, the former first lady of the Philippines. When she fled the country in 1986, her jewellery collection was seized by the Philippine government.

In May 2010, the scheduled appraisals of the collection by experts from Sotheby's and Christie's auction houses were cancelled by the orders of President Arroyo due to "time constraints". The appraisals were to have been the first step in the auctioning of the jewellery collection by the state.

Special thanks to Uwe for the tip

.....

Diamond Laurel Wreath Tiara | Noble Jewelry | Lady Howard de Walden | Heirloom Jewels History

Diamond Starbust and Oak Leaves with acorns Tiara | Noble Jewelry | Lady Howard de Walden | Lady Ludlow | Heirloom Jewels History

Lady Howard de Walden | Countess Irene of Harrach | big diamond tiara in fine design of oak-leaves and acorns alternating with suns rising from leaves

Lady Howard de Walden | Wedding of Countess Irene of Harrach | Nobel Diamond Jewels

.....